To Whom It May Concern:

I'd like to highly recommend Adrian Garcia for a ProPublica Investigative, Data or Engagement Reporting fellowship.

Adrian was among my more accomplished students when I taught journalism at University of Colorado Boulder. In my entrepreneurial media class, he was always the leader in his group projects.

I've followed Adrian's work as an intern at the Denver Post, a reporter at the Coloradoan and as a reporter at the online startup Denverite. He's got great ideas that he executes with precision. At Denverite, he's done a great job tracking development in a fast-growing city. Open records requests and data have been key to the coverage of his beat there.

Adrian's digital, data and depth reporting skills would make him an excellent selection for a ProPublica fellowship. Adrian is a self-directed journalist who also collaborates well with peers and his editors.

If you have questions about Adrian, please don't hesitate to call me at 303-589-0485 or email sandrafish@comcast.net.

Again, I'd highly recommend Adrian for this fellowship.

Sincerely

Sandra Fish
